

Volunteer for the ACLU of Alaska!

Want to help the ACLU in ways other than giving money? Tired of the same old, same old and looking for something new and different? Interested in helping people facing real challenges? Well, we've got just the thing for you. The ACLU of Alaska is looking to build its volunteer base. Whatever you can do, we have a need. We want to build a pool of volunteers to help with our busy case intake lines. We are looking for people to help reach out to others in the community. We want people who will call legislators, government officials, newspaper editors, and neighbors when an issue warrants grassroots action. Do any of these things appeal to you? If so, please clip this coupon and send it to our Anchorage office. We'll see you soon.
